

Tanahun: Body found in drinking water tank

At Manahari in Tanahun District, a lifeless body has been discovered inside a water supply tank on Sunday March 26th by consumers complaints of stinking and putrid water. "The consumers had complained of the water from the taps at their houses was stinking for two to three days. "When we opened the cover of the water tank this morning, we were taken aback to see a body in there", Malla said. The identity of the body is not established yet and it appears that it might have been dumped after the murder.

EGYPTIAN ECONOMY IN CRISIS

Internationalization devalued Egyptian Pound. On 3 November, the Egyptian pound announced a 48% depreciation against the US dollar. The depreciation of the pound pushed up import prices and worsened the country's economic situation.

GUELMIN: WATERMELON AND MELON CULTIVATION NOW PROHIBITED.

Is it because of global warming? Moroccans are very worried, because for them this culture is especially popular.

